Director's Report

Chairman, Shri B.G. Deshmukh, Honourable Chief Guest, Dr. R.A. Mashelkar, Guest of Honour Dr. J.J. Bhabha, Distinguished Guests, Alumni, Students, Staff and Faculty.

INTRODUCTION

I deem it a privilege to welcome you all to the sixty-second convocation of the Institute and present the Annual Report of 2001–2002.

This convocation marks yet another year of continuing growth of the Institute, which was born in an environment of social experimentation. A decade of field work had preceded its birth, which was indeed a trail-blazer in urban community work then. This glorious tradition of pioneering on social frontiers in India has continued till date. The participatory approach and flexibility, which are characteristic of the academic programme and work culture of the Institute, have earned for itself recognition at the national and international levels, and more recently, from the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) in 2002.

Today, the Institute is presenting to the outside world a group of professionals who have pursued their studies successfully and the awarding of degrees to them is only a formal recognition of their professional preparation and competence.

This year's convocation is unique in another way. The dedication of the Library of the Institute, earlier today, to the memory of Sir Dorabji Tata is a fitting tribute to the sacrifice of a great constructive philanthropist who put his entire wealth to the service of society. It is also a reminder to all of us of the vision and mission of the Institute and the continuing nurture and inspiration that it continues to receive from the Sir Dorabji Tata Trust even today. Dr. J.J. Bhabha, the Guest of Honour, is the oldest surviving link, who has witnessed the birth and growth of the Institute, earlier known as the Sir Dorabji Tata Graduate School of Social Work. We are indeed beholden to him for his gracious presence on this occasion.

...I have not abandoned my faith in humanity. Mankind may err. But mankind is still the only source upon which we can depend for social regeneration. If the unstable condition of the world today is directly attributable to human failure, the stabilisation of society can be accompanied through intelligent human effort. As social idealists we are faced with a tremendous task — a task which is by no means lightened by the apathy and pessimism of so many of our fellow men. But I am firmly convinced that if thought ... could be given to morally creative efforts towards mobilisation for social welfare, our problem would be solved...if we can play but a small part in this process, our training here shall not be in vain.

Clifford Manshardt, Founder-Director, TISS, June 20, 1938.

IN MEMORIAM

Prof. G.R. Bannerjee, Former Head and Founder of the Department of Medical and Psychiatric Social Work, passed away on February 18, 2002. We mourn her death.

NATIONAL ASSESSMENT AND ACCREDITATION OF THE INSTITUTE

The opening up of societies and their economies in the current phase of globalisation, and emerging communication technologies are bringing about significant changes in all aspects of social life. Higher education, as a subsystem, has not remained unaffected by these processes. Universities and academia across the world are facing transnational competition. They are reviewing their academic programmes and adopting quality control measures. These institutions are also undergoing formal grading and accreditation to validate their image as leading academic institutions.

The UGC initiated such a process in India by establishing the NAAC at Bangalore. The Institute volunteered to be formally assessed by the NAAC and this led to the visit by the NAAC Peer Team in January this year. This peer review of TISS required sustained efforts of all the constituents in preparing a comprehensive self-study report running into 2 volumes of 600 pages for a formal scrutiny by the NAAC Peer Team, which visited the Institute's campuses in Mumbai and Tuljapur.

The NAAC Peer Team, comprising Prof. V. Vasanthi Devi (Chairperson), Prof. S.N. Ranade, Prof. Jagdish C. Bhatia, Prof. K.K. Jacob, Prof. Jerome Joseph, and Dr. Latha Pillai, visited the Institute from January 10–13, 2002. Various facets of the Institute, namely teaching, research, field action, documentation, knowledge development and dissemination, administration and welfare activities, were the subjects for validation.

An exhibition of the publications of the faculty, a poster exhibition on the Institute, and the work done by the field action projects were also organised on this occasion.

Besides interacting with the TISS faculty, staff and students, the Peer Team also met some of our distinguished alumni, former Directors, retired Professors, Golden Jubilee Chair Professors, and local Members of the Governing Board.

It gives me great pleasure to announce that the Tata Institute of Social Sciences has been accredited with Five Stars — the highest grading — with an overall score of more than 75 per cent. The NAAC Peer Team was appreciative of the various innovative programmes undertaken by the Institute. I quote a few lines from their Draft Report:

The Tata Institute of Social Sciences is without doubt occupying a leadership position in social work and social sciences education and research. Stakeholder pride in the institution is all pervasive, social conscience informs institutional activity, the constantly changing curriculum is still linked to the institutional mission, teaching-learning processes are grounded in reality through extension, there is a burning desire to improve the infrastructure on a continuous basis, and there is the sensitive presence of the institute's alumni in the social, political, academic and corporate spheres.

The NAAC Draft Report provides important leads and useful suggestions to further develop and strengthen various programmes of the Institute in the post-NAAC phase. These are under discussion with a view to making new strides in the field of professional education and research.

NINTH PLAN

The IXth Plan, which ended on March 31, 2002, was a period of consolidation. During this period, the Institute focussed on strengthening its infrastructure, equipment and facilities. For this purpose, though the Institute had proposed Rs.11.94 crores for the Main Campus and Rs. 15 crores for Rural Campus, the UGC sanctioned only Rs. 3.25 crores, for the former and the Rs. 1 crore for the latter.

The IXth Five Year Plan period was, thus, a period of economic crunch and austerity for the Institute. The ban on filling of over 50 administrative vacant positions (including senior level positions such as Deputy and Assistant Registrars) was major setback for the Institute. However, with great difficulty the Institute has managed to sustain, improve and develop programmes with the concerted effort of faculty and existing administrative staff. There was continuous effort to mobilise additional UGC resources by the administration. The Institute also faced problems due to bureaucratic hurdles in developing its infrastructure. Freeze on the recruitment of non-teaching staff has stretched the administration to the maximum.

The Institute enters the Xth Plan with the cumulative deprivations of the past. It is hoped that the Xth Plan period will meet at least some of these deprivations and rectify anomalies so that the Institute can further improve the quality of education, research and field action.

PEACE INITIATIVES: COMMUNAL HARMONY WEEK

For nearly a decade, the Institute has been working closely with the Mohalla Committees in Mumbai, through the placement of social work students for field work, under the auspices of the Mohalla Committee Movement Trust (MCMT). The MCMT is an umbrella organisation of nearly 27 Mohalla Committees set up in different sensitive areas of the city following the 1992–93 communal riots that engulfed Mumbai. During their field work, students join the efforts of local citizens' groups in building and sustaining peace and maintaining communal amity in the city. The TISS proposed the idea of a Communal Harmony Week as an annual event in Mumbai in 1992–93. The idea was well received by the Mohalla Committees and the Mumbai Police.

Communal Harmony Week was observed from January 24–30, 2002, as a joint initiative of the MCMT, the Mumbai Police and the Tata Institute of Social Sciences. His Excellency Dr. P.C. Alexander, the Governor of Maharashtra, inaugurated the programme. This week-long programme consisted of a series of events like seminars for different groups like NGOs, school teachers, media, and the public; inter-faith meet; street play, kavi sammelan and mushaira; screening of movies in several sensitive areas of the city; human chain by school children, the police and the general public; and a run for harmony and peace in various locations in Mumbai.

This programme elicited widespread response from people of various walks of life and led to a snowballing effect in other parts of Maharashtra as well. We have been requested by the Malegaon Police to help them in organising a similar initiative.

Following the communal violence in Gujarat, TISS worked on local peace initiatives along with various groups in the city. The Institute's students, with support from the faculty and staff, prepared a dance drama and a street play to spread the message of communal harmony, and performed programmes at 19 different locations in the city. They received support from the Mumbai Police, the Mohalla Committees and local organisations. This was a spontaneous and mature response to the situation.

A Peace March, scheduled on March 14, 2002, could not be held due to security reasons. Instead, the students, staff and faculty held a peace march on the Campus, in which people from nearby communities, organisations, and police participated.

Since communal and ethnic conflicts are on the rise at the local, regional, national and international levels, and peaceful coexistence, amity and unity are under threat, initiation of comprehensive mass sensitisation and public awareness programmes against communal forces is imperative.

TEACHING

Student Enrolment

In 2001–2002, a total of 391 students were enrolled in the 4 Master's degree programmes, 4 M.Phil. and Ph.D. programmes, 2 Diploma programmes and 1 Certificate programme (Section 1: Appendix 1). These students came from 24 States and 2 Union Territories of India and 4 foreign countries.

Degree Programmes

The student enrolment for the different Master's degree programmes was 310. Of these, 197 were enrolled for M.A. in Social Work, 58 for M.A. in Personnel Management and Industrial Relations, 19 for Master of Health Administration and 36 for Master of Hospital Administration. Women comprised 65.16 per cent (202) of the Master's degree students.

The M.Phil. degree programme admitted 12 scholars of whom 5 were part-time. The Social Work M.Phil. programme registered 2 scholars, the Social Science M.Phil. programme 10 and the Ph.D. programme 32, including 21 part-time scholars. Five scholars are registered for a Ph.D. degree in Social Work and 27 for a Ph.D. in Social Sciences.

Diploma Programmes

Both the Diploma courses offered by the Institute are part-time evening programmes. The Diploma course in Hospital Administration registered 11 students, and the Diploma in Personnel Management 18.

Certificate Programmes

The full-time Certificate programme in Research Methodology enrolled 8 students.

Syllabi

As part of the course on 'Cooperation', first year M.A. Social Work students, specialising in Urban and Rural Community Development, initiated a cooperative consumer venture called Hamari Dukaan. With an innovative style of having mobile sales persons, rather than fixed counters, the venture received tremendous response from staff and students, besides being an 'action learning' experience.

The course on 'Advanced Psychiatric Seminar' is now taught across two semesters in the final year for M.A. Social Work students, with specialisation in Medical and Psychiatric Social Work. Theoretical inputs on psychiatric information are provided in the third semester by psychiatrists from leading teaching hospitals in Mumbai. During the fourth semester, the students are placed in the outpatient departments of Psychiatric Units/Departments. Exposure to both adult and child psychiatric settings is provided to all students.

Field Work

For decades, the Institute has followed a unique method of linking the teaching programme with the area of field practice. This linkage is very strong and the academic weightage given to field practice is high. Out of the 44 credits in each academic year, 12 credits are set aside for practical training. Two days in a week are set aside only for field work for the M.A. students of Social Work and Personnel Management and Industrial Relations. The Masters students of Hospital Administration and Health Administration do internships.

The students of M.A. Social Work were placed in 80 agencies (Section 1: Appendix 2), of which 31 agencies were introduced this year. The Masters students of Personnel Management and Industrial relations were placed in 28 agencies (Section 1: Appendix 2), of which 11 were introduced this year. The first and second year Master of Health Administration and Hospital Administration students were placed in 64 agencies for their internships (Section 1: Appendix 2).

The students of Diploma in Hospital Administration and Diploma in Personnel Management were placed in 13 agencies each (Section 1: Appendix 2).

Rural Camp

The Rural Camp is a compulsory, non-graded learning exercise for the first year students of M.A. in Social Work. It is designed to give students an exposure to rural realities and interventions. This year, the students were divided into five groups and were placed in villages, where they performed some pre-determined tasks and explored a theme with the help of their host organisations for a period of 10 days. The host organisations were Uthan, Anandi, and Navsarjan in Gujarat; Lokshakti Samiti in Chattisgarh; and Shramik Adivasi Sanghatan in Madhya Pradesh. The accompanying faculty facilitated students' learning. The Rural Camp is gradually moving in the direction of intensified field exposure.

Study Tour

The study tour is a compulsory, non-graded activity for second year students of M.A. Social Work. The five social work departments organise these study tours.

The students of the Department of Criminology and Correctional Administration opted to visit the Phillaur Police Academy in Punjab, and Delhi. While the students interacted with the trainees and faculty of the Academy, in Delhi they visited organisations working at both the preventive and corrective level. The objective of the study tour was to gain an insight into the levels of interventions prevalent in the field of corrections, both at the governmental and non-governmental levels, such as the Tihar Jail, Navjyoti, India Vision Foundation, National Human Rights Commission, Commonwealth Human Rights Initiatives, and Prayas.

The Department of Family and Child Welfare organised its study tour to Udaipur, Rajasthan. The focus of the tour was on a holistic understanding of the work done by non-governmental organisations (NGOs) on issues related to non-formal education, health, and women in the informal sector. The students and faculty visited organisations like Astha, Seva Mandir, Jagran, Jan Vikas Samiti, and Shikshantar. The students also got an opportunity to visit different people's organisations in different villages through Ashtha, stay at field sites, and interact with the local people. They learnt, among others, the various methods of work used by different organisations such as mobilising people in a community around common issues, identifying and training leaders in the community, and contacting government officials for speedy implementation of policies.

The students from the Department of Medical and Psychiatric Social Work, as part of their study tour, visited community health and development initiatives in Rajasthan. The Indian Institute of Rural Management and People's Union for Civil Liberties in Jaipur gave them exposure to the health related development sector, while community initiatives undertaken by the Family Planning Association of India in Malpura Taluka gave an exposure to reproductive health at the community level. A visit to the Ajmer Dargah highlighted the traditional healing methods in various physical and mental illnesses. The health initiatives of Prayas, Chittorgarh, provided exposure to issues around accessibility and availability of primary health care and health education.

The study tour objectives of the students of the Department of Social Welfare Administration were to learn about self-help groups, rural livelihood programmes, relief and rehabilitation of project-affected persons, alternative education, joint forest management, and the role of support organisations. With this in mind, Madhya Pradesh was chosen as the study tour area where the students and faculty visited the National Centre for Human Settlement and Environment, and Professional Association for Development Action at Kesla; and Directorate of Gas Relief and Rehabilitation, Indian Institute of Forest Management, Self-Employed Women's Association, EKLAVYA and Samarthan at Bhopal. During this visit they interacted with officials and beneficiaries at various levels and got an understanding of the roles of NGOs, government departments, and research and training institutes.

The students of the Department of Urban and Rural Community Development visited organisations in Kerala with a focus on understanding decentralisation after the 73rd Constitutional Amendment and a range of grassroots initiatives. With a history of the Left Movement in the state, the students wanted to understand the development concerns of a 'literate state' and the less known problems of tribal children in Kerala. The organisations visited were Kanavu, Mararikulam Panchayat, Kerala Shashtra Sahitya Parishad, Fishermen's Cooperatives and the Rubber Board. The impact of the World Trade Organisation and pricing policy on a cash crop such as rubber was explicated through their interaction with the Director of the Rubber Board as well as with those growing and tapping rubber in villages. Discussion sessions with dynamic MLAs and bureaucrats provided critical insights into the complex societal and eco-political factors, which impinge upon decision-making at the policy level.

M.Phil. / Ph.D. Seminars

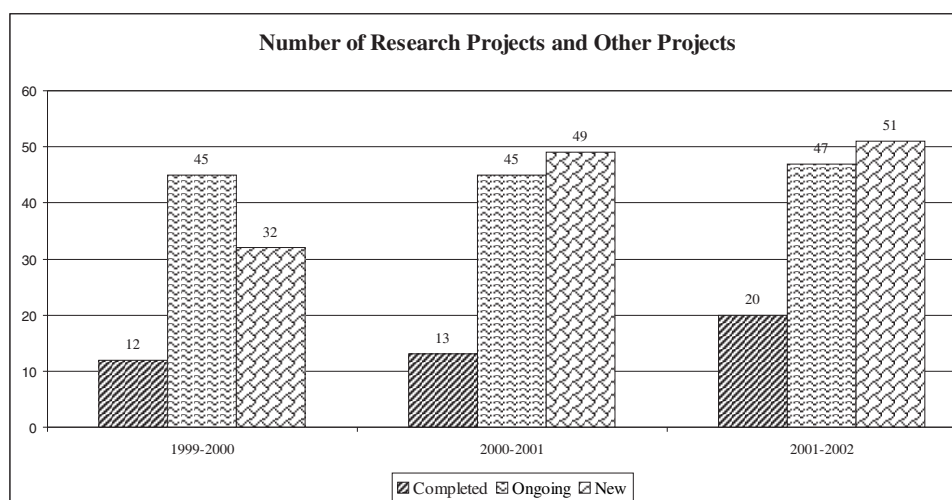

M.Phil. and Ph.D. scholars presented 10 research proposals and self-study papers in seminars during the year (Section 1: Appendix 3).

RESEARCH

As an established centre of social research, issue-based and policy oriented research in the broad area of social development constitutes a major and distinctive activity of the Institute. Over the years, the Institute has completed several research projects, status reports and evaluation studies of several national programmes of welfare and development.

Both Research Units and Teaching Departments undertake research. The Research Units are for Child and Youth Research, Research in the Sociology of Education, Urban Studies, Research and Consultancy in Social Policy and Social Welfare Administration, Rural Studies, Labour Studies, Women's Studies and Family Studies. The Teaching Departments are for Criminology and Correctional Administration, Family and Child Welfare, Medical and Psychiatric Social Work, Social Welfare Administration, Urban and Rural Community Development, Personnel Management and Industrial Relations, Health Services Studies, Research Methodology and Extra Mural Studies. Resource Units like National Service Scheme, Media and Communications, and the Social Work Education and Practice Cell also undertake research. Inter-Department / Unit projects are encouraged at the Institute and there has been a steady increase in their numbers over the years.

This year, the Institute was engaged in 118 projects. These include projects carried over from the previous year as well as new ones initiated during 2001–2002. Inter-Department/Unit projects numbered 19, while 99 projects were carried out by departments and units (Section 1: Appendix 4). Fifty-one projects commenced this year, while 20 projects were completed.

Funding of Research

The Institute's research funding comes from various sources. This includes the Institute's own research funds, as well as national (state and central governments and voluntary organisations) and international agencies (WHO, UNAIDS, Ford Foundation, UNESCO, UNICEF, and so on). This year, the Institute funded 41 projects, the government 25, international agencies 22, non-governmental organisations 14, and other organisations 16.

FIELD ACTION PROJECTS AND FIELD ACTION SUPPORT

The Institute has been undertaking innovative field action projects since the 1930s. These field action projects focus on assistance to and empowerment of marginalised groups, testing new approaches and strategies in response to changing social realities, facilitating development of field-based knowledge and practice-theory continuum, providing students with field work opportunities, and feeding into macro-level formulation of programmes and policies.

In 2001–2002, there were 17 field action projects being implemented by the Institute (Section 1: Appendix 5), of which 3 were Inter-Department/Unit field action projects. Two new field action projects were initiated this year:

- Media Initiatives Towards Community Empowerment and Rural Development (Unit for Media and Communications and TISS Rural Campus, Tuljapur), was established in 2001 with the objectives of developing video productions through a process of training, documenting and evaluating the processes and activities undertaken.
- Monitoring Social Aspects of Rehabilitation for the Tata Relief Committee (Department of Urban and Rural Community Development, and Department of Extra Mural Studies) was established in 2001 with the objective of guiding social aspects of earthquake rehabilitation work.

The Institute also provided field action support to various organisations. This initiative requires special mention as it combines student's field work, training programmes and innovative outreach. The Governing Board has taken special note of the need for support to Field Action Projects.

DISSEMINATION OF KNOWLEDGE

Publications

The Institute fulfils the mandate of producing knowledge and its dissemination in the field of social work and social development through its Publications Unit. One of the major achievements of the Institute is the uninterrupted publication of its premier social work journal, The Indian Journal of Social Work (IJSW), since 1940. The IJSW is widely used by teachers, researchers, professionals in the field and students and has played a facilitative role in social work education across the country. The IJSW completed 62 years of publishing this year in which three issues of the IJSW were brought out including a special issue on 'Family Violence'.

Research study findings and theoretical conclusions of research are regularly published by the faculty in academic journals and books, both national and international. Publications are also brought out in the form of monographs, newsletters, and also in newspapers and magazines. This year, 46 faculty brought out publications. These include 5 authored/edited volumes, 45 articles in journals and books, and 47 other publications in the form of reports; newsletter, magazine, and newspaper articles; book reviews; and so on (Section 1: Appendix 6).

Audio-Visuals

The Resource Unit for Media and Communications (UMC) is a multi-disciplinary unit for media production, teaching, research and dissemination. The UMC produces video documentaries that are used in various contexts. They have been archived in many library collections, including the US Library of Congress.

The Unit's productions have been screened at various film festivals in India and overseas. The video Saacha is one of 15 films in the Travelling Film South Asia package, which has been screened in the United States and various Asian countries.

Seminars, Conferences, Workshops and Training Programmes

The Departments and Units of the Institute regularly conduct seminars, conferences, workshops and training programmes with participants drawn from various disciplines and sections of society. In 2001–2002, 103 programmes were organised by 49 faculty. Of these, 21 programmes were of Inter-Department/Unit nature (Section 1: Appendix 7).

The National Service Scheme (NSS) Unit regularly conducts Orientation Programmes and Refresher Courses for the NSS Programme Officers in the colleges of Maharashtra. The jurisdiction of the Unit spreads to almost 1000 NSS units of Junior and Degree Colleges in Maharashtra. This year, the Unit trained 200 NSS Officers through 5 Orientation Programmes and 1 Refresher Course on 'Volunteerism'. Two training programmes on 'Universities Talk AIDS' were also conducted in which 63 NSS Programme Officers participated.

The Institute has been designated as a Centre to conduct Refresher Courses in Social Work and Women's Studies by the UGC. The Social Work Education and Practice Cell provided administrative coordination to three UGC sponsored Refresher Courses conducted in 2001–2002 on 'Disaster Management and Social Work', 'Gender, Human Rights and Law', and 'Social Work with Labour in the Changing Industrial Context'.

Kumarappa-Reckless Lecture

The Kumarappa-Reckless Lecture for 2001–2002 was on 'Human Rights in Prisons'. It was delivered by Justice J.S. Verma, Chairperson, National Human Rights Commission, New Delhi, on February 22, 2002. Justice Verma emphasised that the concept of human rights was based on the dignity of the individual without reference to the human made artificial division based on colour, race, sex, or religion. He also reiterated that human rights were essential for the realisation of the true potential of every human being. While speaking of prisoners' rights, Justice Verma said that according to Universal Declaration of Human Rights 'no one shall be subjected to torture or cruel inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment'. He further said that special care of women prison inmates was essential for the protection of their rights.

S.D. Punekar Memorial Lecture

The S.D. Punekar Memorial Lecture, was delivered by Prof. C.S. Venkata Ratnam, Professor and Dean, International Management Institute, New Delhi on March 8, 2002. Prof. Ratnam spoke on 'Trade Unions and Wider Society'. Recalling Prof. Punekar's study on outsider unions in Mumbai 50 years ago, Prof. Ratnam emphasised the relevance of trade unions in the wider society. In the backdrop of globalisation and subsequent marginalisation of trade unions worldwide, Prof. Ratnam, suggested trade unions to develop an associational instead of a pecuniary logic; an inclusive instead of exclusive strategy in membership drive; and establish broad alliances with various institutions in the civil society.

OTHER ACADEMIC ACTIVITIES

Participation in Seminars, Conferences, Workshops and Training Programmes

The Institute's faculty participates in international and national level conferences, seminars, workshops and training programmes as resource persons, discussants, and chairpersons of sessions, special invitees, experts or paper presenters. In 2001–2002, 18 faculty participated in 38 international level programmes and presented 14 papers. Seventy members participated in 276 national, regional and local programmes, where 32 papers were presented (Section 1: Appendix 8)

Administrative staff also participated in various programmes: 15 administrative staff members participated in 17 programmes (Section 1: Appendix 9).

Talks/Lectures

The faculty members of the Institute are invited to deliver lectures/talks on subjects of their expertise. This year, 66 faculty members delivered 289 talks/lectures (Section 1: Appendix 10).

Membership of Executive Committees

Forty-five members of the Institute's faculty have served on 202 executive committees of professional bodies, and government and non-government organisations (Section 1: Appendix 11).

RESOURCE SUPPORT

Library

The Institute's Library collection presently totals 1,03,350, which includes bound volumes of periodicals. The Library subscribes to 151 Indian journals, 111 foreign journals and receives 20 journals in an exchange agreement to the IJSW. Eighty-one journals are received on gratis. The Library has also got a small collection of rare and out of print books on social reform movements and bibliographies of social reformers.

The Library's collection of audio-visual (AV) materials, namely, films, video cassettes, flash cards/ posters, slides accompanied by audio cassettes, microfiche and micro films stands at a modest 1600. The collection of CD-ROMs is also growing steadily with as many as 14 databases in different subject areas including Wilson Social Science Abstract, the world's largest bibliographic database in the field of Social Sciences. A full-fledged AV Centre of the Library receives latest information on Social Sciences and allied subjects in the form of Video Tapes, Cassettes, VCDs and DVDs.

On-line Public Access Catalogue (OPAC), a computer retrieval system for searching books/journals/thesis through various access points like author, title, keyword, subject, and so on, is made available to researchers.

The Library has acquired the Galileo Reading Machine, the state-of-the-art computer reading facility for visually impaired students, through the generosity of the Sir Dorabji Tata Trust. This extraordinary computer stores all types of printed documents, including books, magazines, letters and newspapers on the disk. This information can be retrieved from this machine by the visually impaired.

Computer Centre

The Computer Centre (CC) is one of the 13 centres recognised all over India and sponsored by Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi, for giving free guidance and consultancy services to the M.Phil. and Ph.D. scholars from other universities. This year, 32 M.Phil. and Ph.D. scholars availed this facility.

The CC has a fully equipped IBM Local Area Network comprising 2 IBM File Servers, 2 Proxy Servers dedicated to Internet/Intranet services, 35 Pentium PC work stations, 12 printers, 1 scanner, a projection system for training, and the latest software. The CC has networked all stand alone PCs in the Institute to the main Proxy Server for Internet/Intranet facility.

The Centre has been analysing around 250 research projects using the Statistical Package for Social Sciences. It has also been teaching a range of application oriented courses for students of Certificate in Research Methodology, and to M.A. students of Social Work, and Personnel Management and Industrial Relations. The Centre also gives short-term training in using the different software tools for participants of various workshops and administrative staff. The CC has conducted 3 two-weeks' short-term training programmes, in collaboration with the Department of Research Methodology during this academic year on the use of Statistical Software in Social Science Research.

The CC monitors and maintains the Institute website, www.tiss.edu. Through the website, the Centre provides the facility of downloading application forms for admissions, faculty positions as well as online filling up and submission of forms for workshops. Admission results are put on the website once they are announced.

An important activity under the auspices of the UNAIDS Collaborating Centre was the South-Asia Region Conference on Women and AIDS from March 27–29, 2002. The Conference was supported by UNAIDS, UNIFEM, UNDP, NACO and the Centre for Health Studies, TISS. Students' Union

The Union, in addition to its regular cultural and sports activities, organised the following: support in coordinating M.A. and M.H.A. admissions; Art of Living workshops; a review and amendment of the Students' Union Constitution; handling various issues related to the problems faced by the students on the campus; and the social work students forum and job placement cell.

At the same time, students took up various initiatives during the year 2001–2002, such as JUN'K (Just us N' KACHRA), a waste management group; Cultural Studies Group, a group devoted to facilitating exposure to various schools of thought; Spandan, a group to promote cultural initiatives of the students; and Peace Initiatives Group, a group to promote communal harmony among the citizens.

Cultural Activities

In keeping with the spirit of national integration and cross-cultural exchanges, the Union organised celebration of festivals on the campus, such as Pongal, Onam, Dahihandi, Durga Puja, Dandiya, Ganapati, Christmas and New Year. Farewell to the graduating students and welcome to the new batch of students were organised.

The Union organised music concerts of Ustad Baha-ud-Din Dagar, Pandit Nayan Gosh, Pandit Satish Vyas and Ms. Shruti Shadolikar in collaboration with SPIC-MACAY. The culmination of the cultural activities of the Union was the TISS students' festival 'QUINTISSENCE'.

Sports Activities

Indoor and outdoor games competitions were conducted in which students from other colleges also participated. The Annual Sports Day was yet another activity where track and field events were conducted.

Other Activities

Screenings of documentaries and films were regular activities, which also included 'Bioscope', a film festival. Other activities included script reading of films and plays.

Sameeksha

The theme of Sameeksha, organised by the Social Work Students' Forum, was 'Contemporary Social Work: A Global Perspective'. The Seminar was held on February 1–2, 2002. In deciding the focus of the Seminar, the students sought to understand the effect of globalisation and other macro-level changes in contemporary social work practice. The Keynote Address by Prof. Armaity Desai, Ex-Chairperson, UGC, highlighted aspects of professional social work practice and current issues of concern. Other speakers at the Seminar included Mr. Rajendra Singh from Tarun Bharat Sangh, Rajasthan; and Mr. Noshir Dadrawala, Centre for Advancement of Philanthropy.

Sameeksha provided opportunity for discussion and debate among social work students of the Institute as well as for some students of the Delhi School of Social Work.

Manthan

Manthan 2001, the annual two-day seminar of the students of the Department of Personnel Management and Industrial Relations, focussed on the theme of 'Looking Inwards Towards Competitive Advantage: A Corporate Rhetoric or an Individual Reality'. This theme was addressed by Dr. J.J. Irani, Former MD, TISCO, and now on Board with Tata Sons.

Analysing TISCO as a case study in its length and breadth helped the students gain practical insights into the theme. This was followed by discussions on 'Psychological Contract: The Unwritten Ethos', by Mr. H.R. Shashikanth, VP Corporate HR, Birla Management Corporate Ltd. The discussions were very insightful and thought-provoking. The common thread binding all the discussions throughout the day was in terms of questioning the concepts and practices for better understanding.

The second day of Manthan had a panel discussion on 'Disinvestment: A Cost Benefit Analysis' moderated by Dr. Ajit Ranade, Chief Economist, ABN Amro. The panellists were Dr. Aruna Bagchee, Joint Secretary, Ministry of Mines, Government of India; Dr. Arvind Tapole, Union Leader, Voltas Employees' Federation; and Mr. M.K. Sharma, Vice-Chairperson (Legals), Hindustan Lever Limited.

A workshop on 'Unleashing Creativity within the Organisation' was also organised with Prof. Pradeep Khandwal, from the Indian Institute of Management as the resource person.

Overall, Manthan 2001 helped students gain insights into the dynamic environment and changing business practices.

Clairvoyance 2001

Clairvoyance 2001 was organised by the Masters students of Health and Hospital Administration on December 8-9, 2001. This year's theme of the Conference was 'Healthcare Frontiers: Emerging Issues and Challenges'. The job placement brochure of the students was also released at the Conference.

SC and ST Cell

The Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribes Cell was set up at the Institute to promote the special interest of students in the reserved category with the financial assistance from the UGC. Since its inception, the Cell has been providing special inputs in areas where the students experience difficulties.

Out of a total of 310 students enrolled in the Masters Degree programmes, 72 belonged to the reserved category. Of these, 31 received the Government of India's Post-Matric Scholarship. The Institute provided additional funds out of its Maintenance Grants to help them bridge the gap between the scholarship amounts and institutional charges.

Various programmes under remedial coaching schemes are conducted for these students. A speedy grievance redressal mechanism for both students and staff of the Institute has also been established.

As part of this Phase, the Department of Personnel Management and Industrial Relations has shifted to the Naoroji Campus Annexe. In addition to regular classes of this Department, seminars, conferences, workshops and training programmes of the Institute are also being conducted here.

The construction work of blocks of 9 flats have resumed and is likely to be completed by this year end. The construction work of 8 residential units in Phase 1 of a seven-storied block is in progress, while the construction of the compound wall is complete.

DAY CARE CENTRE

The Day Care Centre (DCC) celebrated its 15th anniversary in 2001. The activities commenced with a grand summer camp for children of the age group of 5–10 years, in which 55 children participated. This included flower making, paper bag making, envelope making, tips and techniques of gift-wrapping, pot painting, starch painting, quiz and a visit to the Homi Bhabha Centre for Science Education. A 'Nature Walk' was arranged and tips on 'Save the Environment' were given.

A guest talk on 'Health and Hygiene' was arranged to raise health consciousness among children. Educational and recreational trips were arranged to visit the Hovercraft terminal at Navi Mumbai and the Nehru Planetarium. Films on crocodiles and pet animals were screened. National days like Independence Day, Republic Day and Children's Day were celebrated at the DCC. The children of the DCC also participated in the Peace Rally for Communal Harmony organised at the Institute.

The DCC generated funds from an exhibition-cum-sale of products made by children, the proceeds of which were contributed to the National Welfare Fund in December 2001.

Students from Vivekananda Junior College received a month-long training from DCC staff on crèche and pre-school management, while students from the SVT College, were placed at the DCC for their internship practical training.

RURAL CAMPUS

The Rural Campus (RC) was conceptualised and founded on the belief that there is a need to revive the rural economy and society through self-help, local resource mobilisation, and social and economic development at the village level. The RC, thus, seeks alternatives in the process of development. The innovativeness of the RC lies in its vision of developing teaching/training programmes that are based on grassroots work and social work practice, ensuring a relevance of higher education to field realities, integrating teaching/training with action at the grassroots level, along with research, documentation, advocacy and networking.

The Curriculum Development Programme for the RC is progressing very well. The Draft Curriculum for the Bachelor's programme in Social Work, with specialisation in Rural Development, is being consolidated based on the recommendations of two internal and one external workshops. The Bachelor's course is scheduled to start in June 2003.

Among the new faculty recruited this year, one Professor and two lecturers have joined the RC (Section I: Appendix 14)

The construction of Women's Hostel is in progress (Phase 1-A). The power supply and water supply work have commenced. The proposals of Phase 1-B construction has been finalised and work is likely to begin in a few months time.

Activities during 2001–2002

The RC faculty and staff undertook 9 research projects, of which 4 were in collaboration with the faculty of the Institute's Main Campus (Section 2: Appendix 1). Thirteen field action projects were continuing in the core sectors that have been identified for programme development in the RC: land and water, agriculture, credit, health, education and local self-government (Section 2: Appendix 2). There has been special emphasis on documentation of field experience and research resulting in the RC faculty and staff publishing two books, two articles in journals, as well as bringing out a booklet (Section 2: Appendix 3). The RC faculty and staff organised 19 programmes (Section 2: Appendix 4), participated in 23 international and national programmes (Section 2: Appendix 5), and delivered 8 talks/lectures (Section 2: Appendix 6).

CONCLUDING REMARKS

With this Convocation, the Institute has crossed one more, and an important, milestone in its academic life. The preparation of the self-study report and its validation by the NAAC has initiated a process of introspection at the Institute for strengthening its various programmes and infrastructure.

I place on record my grateful thanks to the Governing Board, the teaching and non-teaching staff, and the students of the Institute whose contributions result in the development of TISS. The management of the Institute and its myriad activities are possible only because of the teamwork of various Departments, Units and Sections of the Institute for the achievement of shared goals.

The Institute is being increasingly called upon to respond to the challenges of rapid change. In this endeavour, it requires support from several quarters. We are thankful to the UGC for their continuing financial support and advice.

The Tata Trusts have always been generous and helpful to the Institute in its programmes and activities. Their assistance for construction, scholarships, field action projects, conferences and intervention in crisis situations is indeed a critical input. We sincerely thank them for their generosity and look forward to their continuing support.

The Institute has benefited from its association with various national, international, governmental and non-governmental agencies. In particular, they have provided financial assistance for a number of research projects. We are beholden to them for their collaboration, partnership and support.

A number of outside agencies are closely involved in the programmes of the Institute. They provide students opportunities for field work, which is an important component of professional education. We are thankful to all the field work agencies and supervisors for their contribution to the enrichment of the educational programmes of the Institute.

At this Convocation, 152 graduates are receiving their Master's degrees — 96 of them in Social Work, 28 in Personnel Management and Industrial Relations, 9 in Health Administration, and 19 in Hospital Administration — after successfully completing the two year programme of professional education. In addition, 4 scholars are being awarded the Master of Philosophy degree and 3 scholars the Doctor of Philosophy degree (Section 1: Appendix 17).

In the past six decades, hundreds of the Institute's alumni have joined the world of work and have distinguished themselves through their contributions in various fields. Today, the Institute is offering another batch of qualified professionals to serve the nation. Those of you, who have acquired requisite knowledge and skills in human services and applied social sciences through M.A./M.H.A. and research degree programmes are indeed privileged. You will be called upon to shoulder the onerous responsibility in the field and also carry forward the mission of the Institute. I am confident that you will make a significant contribution to society in general and to its relatively disadvantaged sections in particular, through your hard work, dedication, and leadership in the trying times ahead.

You are graduating at a time when the impact of globalisation is being felt far and wide and different groups are responding to it in myriad ways. Inequalities, social injustices, disparities, social tensions and violations of human rights are increasing. Communal harmony is under threat. Basic minimum services are yet to be made available to the vast multitude. The challenges before you are, therefore, enormous. As competent and committed professionals, you will not only have to adequately respond to them and find solutions to human problems but also contribute to the overall social development of society as path-finders, innovators and professional role models.

I take this opportunity to congratulate all of you who have successfully completed your studies at the Institute and are being awarded degrees as its testimony, and especially those who have earned the merit awards and prizes in different subject areas (Section 1: Appendix 18). May you continue to win laurels. I wish all of you the very best in your professional careers and continuing success in your endeavours for the promotion of social development through service to society.
