HYDERABAD - CAMPUS

The School of Public Policy and Governance

- Initiated in 2013, the School of Public Policy and Governance (SPPG) is conceived to respond to the mismatch between existing policy institutions and emerging social and policy challenges
- Current governance frameworks now include a wider panoply of state, parastatal and non-state actors
- These institutions demand a multi-disciplinary team of professionals, drawn from outside the government, to engage with policy ideas through an analysis of institutions and regulatory practices, social structure, big-data and analytics, and law
- Responding to this demand, TISS- Hyderabad offers a two year full time graduate programme - M.A. in Public Policy and Governance (MA-PPG)
- It provides students with interdisciplinary expertise, methodological skills and field experience required for working as a public policy professional or to pursue higher academic degrees
- It encourages students to engender operational frameworks for accountable governance and create human opportunities towards a just society

Curriculum Framework : Going Beyond Technocracy

Student Led Policy Research Programme

Policy Area Concentrations (PAC)

- Students choose a policy area and acquire specialised knowledge in a specific sector in which they would prefer to develop as professionals or as academic.
- Each PAC is constituted by a group of students and coordinated by a faculty member.
- Within the PAC, students select research topics and over a period of three semesters study it through lectures, field immersion and internships with policy institutions.
- They produce dissertations that as a group culminate into a research programme on the policy area.

Available PACs

- Regulation and Institutions
- Urbanisation
- Social Conflict and Public Policy
